AN OBSERVER presents

his compliments to Messrs. Byerley and Day, and hopes, notwithstanding "advantageous circumstances," they will be gracious enough to do him justice, with regard to the "false representations," which they were pleased to accuse him of, in the company's address to the public, of last month; as it is imagined, he is not "almost altogether," as a disgraced writer, to either of them, as they affect to represent him. It being thought, that they have, before this time, been pretty fully convinced of the truth of his representations; and, as they then thought his signature worthy of their notice, to his prejudice, it is hoped, they will not now think it left for especially when he has already facilitated the means for them to exculpate him of those *gross*and unbecoming assertions.

N. B. "THE AUTHOR" of the address to Messrs. Thomas Byerley, and Joseph Day, which appeared in this paper, was known to the Editor, and told him, at the time of the first publication, that whenever it became necessary, he might see up the Observer's name. In consequence of which, the Printer informed Mr. Byerley, when he brought the above-mentioned address, that he would speak to the author, if he desired it; but this offer was declined, in order, perhaps, the better to represent the Observer as a disgraced writer of "false representations."

—This, together with another part of these Gentlemen's conduct, relative to their late offensive style, will, it is thought, evince the design of some of their undertakings.

The Printer is desired to continue the foregoing till further notice.

Broad-Street, 7th April, 1774.

SCRIVENER'S OFFICE, &c.

Established in JUNE, 1764.

By JOHN C. KNAPP,

ATTORNEY AT LAW, de B. R.

ON whom the PUBLIC may rely for the most candid opinion and advice, as well in all cases of law and equity, as on deeds, wills, and other writings, with such plain reasons laid down in support thereof, as to give the desired satisfaction, and many times prevent the commencing of defending such suits which only can be productive of great trouble and expence, frequently to persons in low circumstances, utter ruin.

Debts recovered in a much easier manner than by reducing suits in law, with the certainty of paying a long Bill of costs when the debtor proves insolvent, which in the present times is often the case.

Deeds of Gift, leases, releases, mortgages, wills, assignments, petitions, memorials, articles of agreement and co-partnership, Bottomry Bills, charter parties, arbitration bonds, awards, and all other writings drawn effectually to answer the purposes intended. Also, Letters of attorney, certificates, &c. perfected under the City seal or otherwise, as the case may require. AND, as many persons, particularly from the country, are in want of morgages, deeds, and other writings being immediately executed, all such may depend their business cannot be completed in a more expeditious, correct or reasonable manner than at this office.

Money at most times to be had on approved real or personal security, or bottomry, and for the discount of good bills, bonds or notes: All persons favouring this office with lending out their money, may depend the utmost care will be taken of their interest.

Executors and Administrators instructed in the execution of their office, whereby many have avoided the great trouble and expence which daily happens from the want of knowledge therein.

Sea-faring men and other strangers, who many times meet with difficulty in matters not altogether relative to the law, will be particularly assisted; as well those who are involved by losses in trade, &c.

Mr. Knapp assures the public his whole time is devoted to their service, and as half a loaf is better than no bread, he is determined not to be idle.

WHEREAS I George Watson, have been re-bored of my goods and wife, and likewise of my character in my absence at sea, in a most confidential manner by my wife, Rebecca Watson and her confederates: I do hereby give this public notice, to all persons not to harbour, nor give her credit on my account, nor conceal my goods in any wife, but give notice of them to me, or to my lawful attorney, as I will not pay any debt that she may contract from this date, as witness my hand, March 15, 1774. GEORGE WATSON.

MR. ZEDWITZ acquaints his subscribers, and the public in general, posals, hands to carry on the business of CHIMNEY

Dutch Church Street, near Mr. Lott's, perambulator, his subscribers, and others, shall be duly served at any time. He gives this public notice, that his subscribers may be under no necessity to employ any other hands to sweep in the interim; and in order that he may perform agreeable to his proposals, and to avoid blunders (should his people want any house in its regular time, he is desirous, or mischance to any individual) he will take it extremely kind that he be informed thereof, in order to give the injured full satisfaction, which is his wish and desire. [31]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 17.

...We are offered that the Porte are so far from having entered into a negotiation for the suspension of hostilities, that they have sent orders to Hassan Pacha, the new Seraskier of Silistria, to pursue the enquiry on the other side of the Danube, and attack them in their winter quarters.

Petersburg, Jan. 7. Mess. Pallas, Ruffin, know, and others, continue to impart to the discoveries they make in the course of their travels. These learned men have discovered several nations whose names were not so much as known, among which are the Iforowaches and their neighbours the Mandouans. These people are not only remarkable for their skill in agriculture, but also for their making it a part of their worship.

Warsaw, Jan. 12. Letters of good authority, from Count Rondanow's army, mention, that the different corps of troops which passed the Danube have suffered very much in their retreat, particularly the cavalry, who were so continually harried by the Turks, that they found it very difficult to repass that river. The same accounts add, that the Russians were obliged to leave all their magazines, and 30 pieces of cannon behind them. Other services from the above place, dated Jan. 8; say, that the above mentioned General's army had suffered severely, that at present it does not consist of more than 37,600 men, including Cossack

They write from Petersburg, that Major General Karr, who had orders to march with a segment of guards against the home of Collocks who had revolted on the side of the Alpacas, had been recalled and broke the Council of War, for not making more haste.

Hamburg, Jan. 21. The last letter from Moscow confirms the report of the Cossacks of Jauk, who have been joined by the people of several districts bordering upon the Volga. They have chosen one Paganich for their chief, and it is affirmed that they have declared the attachment which Colonel Muir met against them. The troops that are now going against them, part of which were drawn from the garrison of Zu-

Jan. 30. The Polly, Capt. Ayres, is just arrived at Dover, returned from North America, with tea. On her arrival at Philadelphia, the inhabitants informed the Captain, that they would not suffer him either to land or enter his cargo at the Custom-house.

It is said that the tea thrown into the sea at Boston, is valued at 18,000*l.* at 5*¢*. 6*d*. per pound. The whole sent to America is said to be about 300,000*l.* worth, which is returning home, not being suffered to be landed.

It is a fact, that the Americans are about to vote the East India Company the sum of 26 cool, as a compensation for the rejection and destruction of the 2nd fleet over by the body.

A Lie.

The Arabella, from South Carolina to Boston, took fire at sea, by some accident, the 14th of December, and was burnt to the water's edge. The Captain and crew were saved.

According to the latest dispatch from Petersburg, the number of rebels is about 13,000, who have at their head one Prince P—, who has been crowned King of Poland. They have plundered and robbed the whole district of Volga, and killed several Noblemen who refused to join them. They direct their march towards Moscow, and the Court has just 20,000 well disciplined troops to oppose them. It is still suspected that several great men of the empire are concerned in causing this disturbance.

Excerpt from a letter from President Wilson, Jan. 20

"... Called the Russian fleet, under the command of Admiral Grib, for the Mediterranean; and filled with them the Baltic States, and Rostockham. Hammond transports in their service, and the Dificult course. Boyman, a leader on the fleet."

Editorial note: have lately found for the non opposition of the armistice to the conditions, except in the case of the Government.

as a most excellent performance. This Closing of the bar produced no fact or argument; all was rant rhapsody, and declamation against the Agent, for having done his duty. Dr. Franklin did not speak. Mr. Manning replied to Mr. Wadsworth. He did not fully approve of the repeal of the Sumner act. From his speech there seemed ground for suspicion, that Lord Shelburn's party are endeavouring to make fair weather of St. James's; Mr. Cornwall's pension was an easier and stronger proof of it. The speech being ended, the lawyers and Dr. Franklin retired. The Council are said to have debated the matter, and to have been unanimous in their opinion. The report they are to make to the King is said to be highly in favour of Governor Hutchinson, and the whole part he has acted; from which, it is imagined, he will be further complimented with a letter of thanks. The Agent who, for doing nothing more than his duty, in his official capacity, was replied in the bitterest terms; and in the evening of the same day (Saturday) he was informed by letter from Lord Le Despencer, that his Majesty had dismissed him from his office of Postmaster in America.

The manner in which a celebrated Agent obtained the very extraordinary letter, which have occasioned so much noise, is said to be from the late Mr. Fishburne, who had them of Mr. Whately, to whom they were written. This is not given as the fact, but is the report that is current of that matter.

The affairs of America at present occupy the whole attention of administration; and it is agreed on all hands to be now the most important business that has come under consideration since the accession of the present King.

Feb. 3.] On Saturday last the Privy Council met to hear the arguments for and against the petition of the Assembly of Boston (which was some time since presented by their Agent Dr. Franklin) "praying that his Majesty would be pleased to remove the Governor &c." Serjeant Glynn and Mr. Duane were counsel for the petition, and argued very strongly the expediency and necessity of granting the prayer of it. Mr. Solicitor General was employed on the other side, and instead of answering the learned arguments of his brethren, or refuting the allegations of the petition, contented himself with pronouncing a most severe philippic on the celebrated American philosopher, in which he loaded him with all the libelles and scurrility of the bar, and decked his language with the choicest flowers of Billingsgate. The Doctor seemed to receive the thunder of his eloquence with philosophic tranquillity and sovereign contempt, whilst the approving smiles of those at the board clearly showed that the coarsest language can be critical to the wisest ears.

Extract of another letter from New York, dated Dec 1,

February 4. The Ruffel, Europa, Mars, and Antelope, are the four men of war appointed to the American station, under the command of Admiral Greaves.

• The Ministry have not yet come to any resolution what to do with America. Their councils are discordant, their penetration superficial, and their courage rank cowardice. In a word, America like France or Spain, is now a match for them. They are unequal to the business, and therefore true types of the hand that made them; nor is it difficult to guess for what purpose they are continued in office, since daily experience convinces the whole world, the British Empire is languishing away in their hands.

We hear that Mr. Wedderburn, by the late exertion of his oratorical powers, has shewn government to what lengths he is willing to serve them, that nothing less than the seals are talked of as a recompence for indignities a servant.

By all accounts from New England, the people are in such a ferment about the tax upon tea, and the East India Company's sending at this time such a quantity of it there, as bids fair to disturb the peace of all our colonies in America. The conduct of government towards all our colonies has been highly detrimental and injurious to the trade and commerce of this kingdom. The Ministry do not seem to know, that the principal advantages which this country can reap from its colonies, are the increase of its trade and commerce; and also of its navigation. But it is the misfortune of this nation to have persons in power, who turn all public advantages into private jobs; and instead of increasing the trade, commerce and navigation of this kingdom by the means and intercourse of its colonies, industry to impose taxes upon our fellow-subjects in those countries, in order to create places of profit for their creatures and dependents. This is the fource, and foundation of all the uneasiness and disturbances which have arisen, and are now got to the greatest height in our American colonies; and this is the cause that hath degraded this nation of almost all its trade, and commerce with them. For the taxes which the Ministry here is remitting, would be laid upon them, if such a world had relied only on a single tax, such as could have been of more use to our country, without any other means of raising money for promoting the interest of the Ministry, in enabling him to serve the king and the country. And

STAY on a time (I know it's a time) In Ly, or in Lincoln, or A Frog and Mouse had strong disputes, Held in the language of the streets, Who of a certain pool and pasture Should be the foreign Land and Master.
Says the Frog, (and d—his blood) I hold that any pretension's good Nor can a brim of reason doubt it, For all that you can speak about it.
The Mouse, aware to be overpowered, Gave him the lie, and call'd him coward:
Too hard for any Frog's digestion, To have his words call'd in question!
A battle instantly was made,
No thought of peace could evade, On the last morn, as soon as light, With desperate valour to fight.
The morning came, and man to man,
The grand assembly began.
Noble! to see how each bravado Shone in words and puffs!
To what a height their pride they carry'd!
How oft they thrusted and they parry'd!
But, as their champions kept disputing Flashed in the air of fencing, A furious Venture took upon her Quick to catch this point of honour!
And, Laying like to make an end on't, Devo'd both Plaintiff and Defendant.
Thus, when in our British nation, (I speak by way of application) A lie drivs, to fame her youth, The giving which, perhaps, was truth;
The sending on a scoundrel's too;
Or dealing impudence his blow;
A thousand trifles not worth naming,
In jostling, jockeying, and gaming, Shall cause a challenge's issuing,
And for two hours a fighting, Means while the Father of deceit, The Prince of Vanity and Lie, His quality, like a hawk, discover,
Or their devoted heads being ring, Secure to get in his talons, describes the shape in which these bodiless souls appeared after their departure. The said Thomas say is now alive, and what he told, when he happened exactly as he related.—To which is

LINE RAGS,
According to their Quality and Fineness,
By JOHN KEATING, AT HIS PAPER MANUFACTORY,
STORE IN NEW-YORK,
On the North River, or his Near BURLING-SLIP,
Where he has for SALE A Good Assortment of European and India goods, suitable for the season, &c.

The demand for paper in America, is of late so greatly increased, that very large sums are constantly sent abroad for the purchase of it, to the great impoverishment of the Colonies. All the paper which is manufactured among our selves, is a clear saving, to us, of all the money that would be sent off of the country to procure it. It is therefore hoped, that all those who really wish to promote the interest of America, and of this country in particular, with which they are more closely connected in interest, will contribute their aid to the success of the paper manufactory in this place, by a constant care and attention to save the lign saw, which every family could afford in a greater or less quantity, quite useless for any other purpose, and generally thrown away, but absolutely necessary to a paper manufactory, which cannot be carried on without them.
The finalness of the value of rags in a family, is apt to make people careless in saving them, as being scarce worth the trouble; but small as the value is, it is more than sufficient, taking one family with another, to supply each with all the paper necessary for its use; and the benefit each will receive in common with the community, will be much greater than their immediate profit by the price of the rags. A certain place for a part in every house to receive them, and a little practice in saving them, would soon make it habitual to do it, and establish this valuable manufactory upon a permanent foundation.
